HELLZAPOPPIN

"We apologize for any inconveniences, but the Penguin Boy will be on hiatus for a while due to an injury to his Kidney problems." The previous phrase (quoted verbatim), which currently sits atop a list of current (and healthy) touring performers, may sound like a Tom Waits lyric but is actually an accurate summary of the tone that surrounds Hellzapoppin. A touring circus that is one-part freakshow, one-part Vaudeville and two-parts LSD, Hellzapoppin will be performing at Dante's alongside this year's Ink 'N' Pink finalists on the night of Friday, June 11th. Although it may be tough to take the attention away from a contest involving tattooed strippers without disrupting the show (and subsequently getting thrown out of the venue, sorry about that guys), I anticipate that Hellzapoppin may possibly give a few performers a run for their applause when they make their stop in Portland.

As many locals know all too well, the Rose City is no stranger to weird. You know the rules, and so do I—to classify as "Portland," you must appear to be as unique as possible without visible intention, conforming to a strict set of rules that accompany anyone seeking the classification of "individual." The trick is, as King Missile put it, to be "different like everyone else." Last month, a local scenester paper released its list of the best new bands in Portland. The winner consisted of a geeky, chick-fronted indie rock band, with the remainder of the list comprised of MGMT ripoffs or guy-fronted indie rock bands. The Portland Art Museum is presenting its edgy and racy interpretation of Othello, once again, for yet another year in a row and starring the same local thespians. Thrice weekly, you can even check out the otherwise inaccessible goth/industrial culture with DJs who all spin the exact same hard-to-find vinyl.

Catching my drift here? Artistic individuality may appear to exist in P-Town, but the market is over-saturated with the same old "different" shit. In reality, the connoisseur of culture can only stomach so much indie rock and black-and-white photography exhibits of the old Henry's building before losing their organically-grown, free-trade lunch. Hence, you have a town that is comprised of folks starving for art coupled with a visible lack of starving artists. Although we hate to admit it, Portlanders are absolutely famished for eye and ear candy that doesn't appeal to the Holocene crowd. Timing for Ink 'N' Pink couldn't be more perfect, as the event tends to get the attention of many who would otherwise avoid strippers and/or tattoos. This year's audiences will be given an additional rare treat in the form of a genuine freak circus that brings just as much out of the audience as it does from the stage.

Hellzapoppin ringleader Bryce "The Govna" Graves positions himself as "a professional con-man and a womanizer without peer—a pussy magnet that could give any rock star a run for their money," yet, "totally focused and swiftly climbing the ladder in the annoying copycat world of the entertainment business." Immediately garnishing my own personal respect for his business ethics and attitude toward the opposite sex, The Govna deserves the same sentiment from regular, non-sexist honest citizens for recognizing the imitative and frustrating nature of performance arts while at the same time promoting his own interpretation of Vaudevillian craft with enthusiasm.

According to the official website, those performing with Hellzapoppin—the world's largest traveling circus—are "outsider artistic children that never grew up... true vagabonds [with] hearts filled with wanderlust. They travel upon a modern day pirate ship, steered by the hopes and dreams of artists willing to put themselves through whatever it takes to find that spotlight that is their home." Positioning themselves in complete opposition with, oh pretty much any current artist or musician not touring with a freakshow (or having been featured in Aural Stimulation), the Hellzapoppers (copyright Me, 2010) are truly dedicated traveling circus pirates committed to the idea of a maintaining an appreciation of artistic expression, creativity and a free-spirited attitude toward a serious business. To think that such a phenomenon is "rare" may be depressing, but it's unfortunately true. In addition to the tattooed-titted talent that will be taking stage at the Ink 'N' Pink finals, you may have the fortune of meeting the following bastard children of Tom Waits and P.T. Barnum.

Although original in many senses of the word, the idea of a touring freakshow circus is not exactly untried, and Hellzapoppin makes no claims to the contrary. Rather, the troupe presents itself as a cohesive and self-contained whole with homage and credit given where necessary. From Barnum and Bailey to Jim Rose and beyond, the evolution of the counter-cultural experience that is the traveling circus has maintained a steady evolution and surprising permanence. Sometimes strange (Wanderlust Circus), often amazing (Cirque Du Soleil) and, on a local level, frequently anticipated (Sinferno), circus troupes have survived a potentially lethal decade in terms of entertainment sustainability. As listed on their (functional and up-to-date) website, Hellzapoppin gives thanks to a participatory audience, further recognizing “a lifestyle understood by a select few, a hundreds-of-years old tradition, a heritage carried on by modern day minstrels and mountebanks that understand an artistic outlook (is) the ground zero of real show business.”

The survival of the touring circus genre (specifically the Hellzapoppin troupe) may be credited to the enthusiasm and zeal exhibited by its performers. Artist autobiographies and press kits in other facets of the entertainment genre (specifically musicians, although accomplices exist on Broadway as well as in art galleries) rarely acknowledge an owed gratitude toward the artistic craft that draws the audience to the live stage. Yes, you will find a list of acts that Hellzapoppin has performed with (Marilyn Manson and Slipknot have shared the stage with the troupe, often featured at otherwise music-centric festivals such as Warped Tour and Ozzfest) as well as the mandatory list of as-featured-on appearances (including The Tonight Show and National Geographic), but that is simply an introduction for virgin eyes. A complete list of performers, tour dates, press releases and contact information can be found at Hellzapoppin.com, but since you’re most likely reading a magazine because of inability to access the internet, I will introduce you to the current lineup you will run into at Dante’s on June 10th:

Zamora the Torture King

With over two decades of displaying the abilities of “a disciplined mind and meditative techniques,” Zamora has helped mold the craft of the modern-day circus by doing everything from eating glass while skewering his own skin, to maintaining hot burns to the flesh after resting on a bed of nails. Although such extremes may be necessary to, say, land a date with an Exotic covergirl, you aren’t going to see any Zamora imitators casually hanging around the Saturday Market. The first sideshow performer to ever appear on a Las Vegas stage, Zamora has also participated in a 13-year-run at Knott’s Berry Farm Halloween events. From fully-grown children to immature adults, Zamora has entertained and astounded audiences of all backgrounds, and it will be a treat to watch all the body mod kids and piercing artists cringe at the sight of someone that takes the hobby to the next level.

John Shaw

No, that’s not Voltaire, it’s John Shaw (and you won’t have to sit through any goth folk music while witnessing the spectacle that is Shaw’s self-described “geek show”). Presenting an act that claims to impact audiences for years to come, Shaw is a master of escapology and related magical craft. The visually mystical is always a welcome addition to the physically repulsive, and Hellzapoppin seems to appreciate the entire spectrum. John Shaw advertises his “most dazzling and bizarre” show as an exhibition of the “seldom seen marvels of human discipline.” By the looks of it, Shaw appears to be the Veesha of Hellzapoppin, a show-stealer not to be missed.

Lady Diabla

There are more members of the Wu-Tang Clan than there are female sword swallows in the world. Lady Diabla is not only one of them, but she is also credited as one of Las Vegas’s most beautiful women. If you need to be sold on this act, you are reading the wrong fucking magazine and might as well spend your Sunday night at mass. Witness this vixen deep throat weapons, come back with a bad review and I’ll show you a person in serious denial. ‘Nuff said.

Here we are knocking on the door of our 17th anniversary. We're almost legal this month, and barely legal next month. Yet as much as things here at the mag have matured like a fine wine over the past 18 years, I can't help but feel like I'm trapped inside of some neverending loop of a twisted time-space continuum. My existence here at the magazine is clearly evidence of that. But rather than bore you with the usual rant this month, I'll give a bit of an apology for last month's tirade. Yep, I went and said some shit I shouldn't have, again. No one complained, mind you, but after reading it the day after we went to press, I felt a little dirty and even I can have regret. The words on that page made it clear to me that I'm spending way too much time around the dancers (an obvious hazard of being a full-time DJ). What was supposed to be sarcastic wit simply turned into a tiresome assortment of drama, bitching and moaning. A 45-year-old man should set an example to the lovely naked ladies, not become one of them. With that, I'm putting myself on "groundation" (definition: when a stripper is naughty, she is forced to work day shifts until she has redeemed her evil ways). Now maybe I'm not going to banish myself to dayshift, but I will take a month off the bitter pill and just tell you all how much strippers rock. We wouldn't be here without them for the past 17 years, now would we? With that, let's all go ahead and celebrate the hotness of the upcoming summer months and welcome the Rose Festival fleet to our friendly clothing-deficient shores once again. Let's make this the summer of love! We love strippers, sailors love strippers, strippers love money—it's a simple equation. Now that we've figured that out, let's move onto what looks like an action-packed, hot and sticky summer calendar coming your way this month. We'll catch up next month with a very special edition of "Erotic City," but right now I have to go get my prescription refilled for these happy pills. See you on Friday, June 11th at Dante's for the Ink 'N' Pink finals along with the Hellzapoppin Sideshow Revue. This night promises to rock your world, don't you dare miss it. Exotic loves you!

Welcome Rose Festival Fleet!

Yep, I'm back again to bash your brains in with literal liquor lessons and toss around a few innovative drinks to kick off this summer's quest for heat. That's right, this rainy city is bound to get a heat wave this summer and, when it does, we're going to celebrate that wonderful ball of fire by throwing down some fantastic flaming drink specials.

Let's start with a Flaming Piece of A.S.S.!

- 1 oz. Amaretto
- 1 splash rum, over proof/151 proof
- 1 oz. Sour Apple Pucker
- 1 oz. Southern Comfort

First layer the ingredients starting with the Amaretto, then Sour Apple Pucker and Southern Comfort. Next float the 151 rum, light it on fire and shoot the drink. Not on fire of course, you want to blow on that A.S.S. before you suck it down.

If that sweet shot didn't warm your tongue and tickle your senses, try Knockin' at Death's Door. This might be a little more than you bargained for.

- 1 tbsp. bourbon
- 2 oz. rum, anejo
- 2 oz. rum, gold
- 2 oz. rum, Jamaican
- 4 oz. rum, over proof/151 proof
- 2 oz. rum, red
- 2 oz. rum, spiced
- 2 oz. rum, white
- 2 cans 7-UP
- 3 oz. grenadine
- 3/4 can passion fruit juice
- 4 sugar cubes
- 2 scoops ice

Add all ingredients, except sugar cubes and bourbon, into a chilled pitcher and mix. Add the ice last. To finish, take the four sugar cubes and melt them together to form one large cube. Take the tablespoon of bourbon and pour it onto the sugar cube, light it and set it on top of the ice in the pitcher.

Now that you've had a Piece of A.S.S. and tried Knockin' at Death's Door, what's left for you to explore? What every boy, bi-curious girl and lesbian want...Hot Lesbian Sex! That's right, if you didn't burn the flesh from your face consuming the last two drinks, then pull up your pants, push back your sleeves and try this shot on for size.

- 1 part brandy, cherry
- 1 part brandy, peach
- 1 splash rum, over proof/151 proof
- 1 part schnapps, peach

Add equal parts of both brandies and the peach schnapps in a shot glass, top with 151, set fire to it and serve.

I've got to admit, trying to find a topper for the last three was pretty difficult. Instead of cramming another Morphine Drip or Threesome down your throat, I'm going to give you the makings for what I think is possibly the sickest shot known to man. Napalm Sticks to Kids is possibly the worst combination of liquor ever! Therefore, this is the shot you serve drunken assholes when they gruffly tell you to just make them something. It's hilarious to watch the expression on people's faces when you start the preparation of this equally evil-named drink.

- 1 part Aftershock
- 1 part rum, over proof/151 proof
- 1 stick beef jerky
- 1/2 tsp. Tabasco Sauce

Shake liquid ingredients in a cocktail shaker with ice. Strain into an old-fashioned glass. Add the stick of beef jerky (cut into a human figure). Then light it up!

Well friends, that's all the crazy shit I've mixed up for you this month. Keep your eyes out for next month's edition of toxic mixes and we'll see just how far down that hole you're willing to go.

TALES FROM THE D.J. BOOTH

Although written in ink and somewhat consistent with the pink theme, the true inspiration behind this month's column comes from Lil' Wayne, particularly his song "Pussy, Money, Weed." The relationship between money and the remaining two factors in question is clear: if you have one, you can easily purchase the other two. But what is the relationship, if any, between pussy and weed (aside from the fact that Lil' Wayne apparently loves his bitch as much as all three of these things, which begs the question, is the initial variable something that his bitch is unable to provide)? The answer may not be obvious to the casual observer, but upon further examination it becomes clear that it's all in the name.

A Taste of Portland: Weed vs. Pussy

I was picking up an ounce of the sticky the other week and the salesperson was going off about how irritated he is with having to keep up with the different names of weed.

"Here," he said while handing me a plastic baggy filled with magical green medicine, "this shit is called Bumbleberry. Want to know why? 'Cause I just fucking named it that."

"No relationship to blueberry or bubblegum?" I asked.

"None whatsoever, it's just good weed."

My buddy may have been correct in the assertion that naming weed is, for all intents and purposes, somewhat pointless outside of the "good," "bad" and "Mexi" categories, but I felt as if the issue needed the over-analysis required to pass off the knowledge as journalism. My weedman may have been quite jaded from years in the business, but several other sources were able to provide me with the supplies required to pose a counter-argument. What I discovered in the end is that not only is marijuana able to be classified according to taste, consistency, potency, smell and other aesthetic qualities, but the same applies to the other variable in the Lil' Wayne trifecta: pussy. So much, in fact, that pussy and weed might as well be first cousins.

Don't believe me? Take this test to see how much you know about the difference between blunts and cunts. Each of the following is either a legit classification of weed (according to available sources) or a name for pussy that I made up for this article. Good luck!

1. Sour Diesel: A fruity, viscous variety that is simultaneously moist and easy to consume. Well-trimmed as a result of years of professional curing and maturation secrets passed down from previous generations, Sour Diesel is surprisingly good considering its marketplace longevity and availability. Although one would think that any specific strain would lose appeal after years of use, Sour Diesel always does the trick, especially after a glass of red wine and a long walk on the beach. Initially a top-shelf blend in terms of price, the street value of Sour Diesel has deteriorated significantly over the years, and a weekend supply won't cost you more than the price of dinner for two.

2. Pier 39: Moist, dense, dark and humid, this particular blend has a very unappealing taste and smell that often goes undetected until you hit it for the first time. Because this is a very accessible strain that often packages itself under a different name, many users develop a tolerance to (if not an appreciation for) the dank aroma that can stay on your fingers for days after use. Some users may even find seed fragments in mass-distributed varieties of Pier 39, these should be removed before the substance is used.

3. Trainwreck: Be careful how much of this you put your lips on, because the results can be devastating. Trainwreck users experience an intense physical reaction almost immediately upon contact with the strain—a highly aromatic variety that is hard to mask from the senses. With proper precautions taken, this blend can provide for a very worthwhile experience, but overexposure can result in allergic reactions and embarrassing visits to the doctor. Trainwreck is the most commonly passed-around strain and is widely available to street consumers, especially on the west coast.

4. Cabbage Patch: Playful yet robust, this variety is bushy and untrimmed, emitting an earthy, cabbage-like taste. A common favorite for hippies, organic food enthusiasts and pagans, this flavor is easy to find at Hempfest and the Country Fair. Moist without being too wet, Cabbage Patch does the job during the first few tastes but the flavor can become tiring and almost repugnant to the senses if used constantly.

5. Purple Kush: Named for its unique color and texture, this pungent variety is popular amongst the hip-hop subculture as well as in heavily populated urban environments. Although Purple Kush can be quite expensive when properly manicured and raised on a healthy supply of nutrients, not all strains classified as such exhibit the same qualities. Some users prefer the darker, more organic Kush, while others tend to favor lighter, mocha-colored varieties that come from Northern California.

6. Peach Soda: A smooth and refreshing variety that loses its unique flavor almost immediately after the packaging seal is broken for the first time (then it becomes flat and begins to lack density and crispness). Bright pink with no visible hair, Peach Soda is a personal favorite when in season (early Spring to late Summer). Extremely potent and able to provide a very quick rush to the senses, this variety is only available in the states in which the particular strain has been legalized. Purchasing this off the internet is not recommended and may result in authorities showing up to your place of residence.

Speaking With Malice: A Correction

Last month, I published a scathing rant in which I claimed that most so-called dancers in this industry can't actually "dance" to anything that they don't hear seven times a day in the mall, and thus customer requests should be taken with a grain of salt and a shot of whiskey. Sassy's dancer Malice, a personal favorite as well as a co-worker, called me out claiming that "it's not that (she) can't dance to certain songs, it's that she won't dance to certain songs." This makes perfectly good sense when considering the source, a performer that choreographs her sets (many of which fit a consistent theme). To me, requesting a song for this type of performer is not the same as suggesting one for the uninspired dancer that twiddles her hair with the same bored gaze in her eye regardless of who is (or isn't) in the club. Thus, dancers like Malice who perform as if they actually give a fuck about what they do should be completely excluded from last month's argument. The beatings will continue, however, until the lazy strippers follow in suit.

WHATZ CRACKIN'?

Hey loved ones, hope all is good with you and yours. As the weather starts to heat up, I figured I would heat up my column a little bit with the return of the Honey of the Month. Truthfully, it's back by popular demand! Some of you that have checked out my last two articles have asked "Whatz up with the honeys, Mack?" I got a real special one for you. Also, for those of you hip hop heads in the P-Town and surrounding areas, I got a new CD for you to check out. Plus, I'll let you in on whatz crackin' around town and a few major events jumping off in June 2010. Break a nugget down, put it in something and let's roll.

First Up, NORML Music

NORML stands for the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws. Since I recently became a member of the organization, I decided to create a CD that's all about cannabis. I linked up with my guy, Big Dub, who co-wrote the songs and produced the CD. We also are featuring the music of a young up-and-coming producer named Wonder Child. This kid has some of the tightest beatz that I've heard in a while. The homies, New Era and Jagga have a track on the joint as well. Together we've released a new CD titled NORML Music. You can check it out at www.reverbnation.com/jmackandbigdub. Currently, we are giving away two free downloads for you to burn and roll to. Be sure to check out a track called "Get High" and another titled "Mary Jane," available for you right now. You can also log on to normlmusic.com and see more about our movement and our music.

Next Up, Concerts Galore

To those of you that enjoy live hip-hop shows, this month is definitely on and crackin' with a few that you don't want to miss. Here's the line up for June 2010:

- Friday, June 4th Coolio live at the Expo Center.
- Saturday, June 5th E-40, Too $hort and Mack 10 live at the Salem Pavilion.
- Tuesday, June 8th Bone Thugs-n-Harmony live at the Wonder Ballroom.
- Friday, June 18th KUBE 93 Summer Jam 2010 featuring Drake, Trey Songz, Fabolous, The Game, Rick Ross and many more at the White River Amphitheater in Washington.

That's a lot to choose from in a short amount of time, but I'm sure I'll see some of you at a few of them! Get your tickets and let's kick it.

Club Hoppin'

As we have all noticed recently, the club scene is changing by the minute. Some are closed down, some have opened with new names and others have changed up their formats. I have listed a few that are worth checking out (depending on what you're into). For downtown strip clubs, I recommend Club Rouge and Spycy Gentlemen's Club. The service is excellent at both of these venues and the girls put on amazing stage performances. If you want to get your dance on and socialize, I suggest you check out Club Gossip. They feature some of the best DJs in town and the atmosphere is real chill. For live music, check out the 915 Club on Wednesday nights with the Tony Ozier Band. On Sundays at Gossip, I'll be hosting the Ladies of the Industry Party with Flawless Productions.

Party Picks for June

On Wednesday, June 2nd, 2010 make sure you're at the Gemini Birthday Bash at Club Gossip. Gossip is located at 113th and Northeast Halsey. It will be hosted by yours truly and Franchise, along with ten beautiful "Flawless" ladies. It's also my featured Honey of the Month's birthday that night, so it's going down for sure. Hope to see you there!

On Friday, June 11th it's the Official "All White Grown & Sexy Party" hosted by Brotha Luv & Company. Ladies and Gents come with your flyest white apparel. DJ George will be spinning the cutz and it takes place at the T&A Event Center near the Convention Center on MLK Jr. Boulevard.

Honey of the Month

The June 2010 Honey of the Month is the extremely attractive Naomi of Flawless Productions. She's one of the sexiest female promoters in the town and we will be celebrating her birthday bash real big. Congrats love.

Make sure to check out my column next month for details on my Honey of the Month Contest. It's coming to a club near you in July. Hit me up at whatzcrackintv@gmail.com. Until next month, y'all keep it crackin'.

One love,
J.Mack

Bad sex is such a disappointing event and few of us like to discuss it. Bad sex is also more frustrating when the person brags and boasts about their talents before the deed. I hear women complaining about it more often than men. During a recent interview, I had a famous pornstar tell me about her bad sex experience. Can you imagine how bad a guy has to feel not being able to put it down on Jesse Jane?

Jesse Jane did a signing at Taboo Video and I arrived early enough to get a chance to interview this super porn vixen. Jesse has been in a number of movies, such as Fly Girls and Pirates. I was so pleased to find out how open and sweet she is. There are a lot of people who get famous and become conceited or even plain rude. Jesse is a hot, cool, All-American chick! She looked smokin' in her white tanktop and jeans as she greeted a long line of salivating men and eager women awaiting her signature. Before all this began, we were able to get a live video interview and pictures for Stripperland TV.

I asked her several questions, like how she got into porn. She explained she loves to fuck and is good at it. She smiled, laughed and bounced her big tits around during all the questions. The camera man and photographer could barely keep their focus during the process. The men waiting looked hungry for Jesse and horny as hell—it was like they were all in a trance. There had to be an all-time-high number of boners in that building that day. Imagine watching movies of one of porn's hottest chicks fucking and then getting to see her in person. What stood out the most to me during our interview was when I asked, "Jesse, what is your worst sexual experience?" She smiled huge and began telling her story. She said that she had met a real hot Chippendale dancer that wasn't a pornstar and told him she could get him on set. Of course he was interested. Jesse was all excited because he bragged about how good he was and how he was going to rock her world. He also had a real big cock. Jesse said "I asked him, now you won't have a problem once the cameras come on?" She said he replied "Oh no, just wait, I am all good... you'll see, I've banged four chicks at once in a hot tub." Jesse said "Really, so you won't be afraid?" He said no and kept bragging about all the chicks he had banged. Jesse was totally excited for this sex to happen. She said he took four Viagras before the scene and when it came down to it—nothing. His cock wouldn't even get hard. Instead he turned bright red like the pants he had on and looked like he was going to explode. Jesse said "They had to call in a stunt cock." Whoa, a stunt cock for Jesse Jane? What a shame! The man has to live with that forever. They had already filmed the dialogue, so the stunt cock worked. She was so disappointed. If you were to see Jesse in person, you would see a gorgeous, care-free, fun-loving woman. She joked and laughed about how the next time she saw him, they tried again. She said "Four Viagras? I mean come on. Only take like two." I asked "How did it go the second time?" She said, "Still nothing!" The cameras and Jesse made him nervous and he couldn't get it up... again. "Damn Jesse," I said, "I was hoping you were going to tell me he redeemed himself." "Nope," she said, "I'm not going to try anymore with him." As I stood there listening to her story I imagined having the opportunity to fuck Jesse Jane and not being able to get it up—what a fucked up feeling to live with.

Bad sex is one of those things that you can't let stay that way ladies and gentlemen! This month I want to touch base on the importance of fixing any "bad sex" label you have obtained. If any of you have been the "two-minute man" please hurry up and fix that label. It's just simply ugly when women talk about how crappy men are during sex. Believe me, they will talk about you forever. Women are very descriptive and stories get detailed.

Here are a few sex tips for the men to keep in mind:

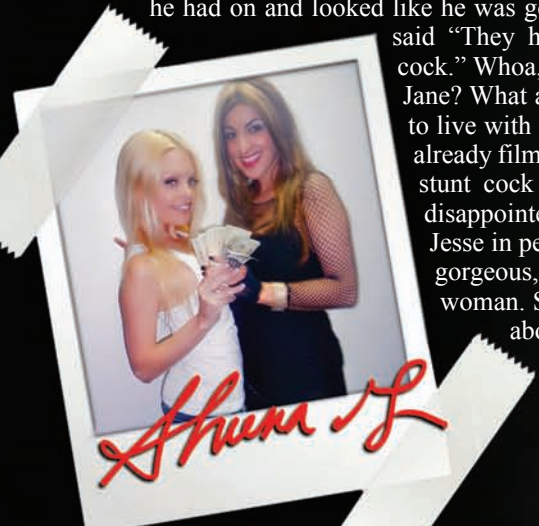

- Do not have too many viagras or it will have a reverse effect.
- Let your mind wander to something else if you feel you will release too quick.
- Release your self before—like an hour before—so you last longer.
- Don't go weeks without releasing. Handle that weekly or even daily. Build up your sex drive limitations.

For the ladies:

- Always make sure you do several positions during sex.
- Use all your skills, such as oral, sounds during sex and use those pussy muscles.
- Build excitement, be nasty and don't ever just lay there. Move your body.
- Keep in mind that men are visual, so move your hair aside during oral sex and go for that "pornstar" look.
- Keep a lube pack and lube up if you don't get those sugar walls easily.

With the Rose Festival around the corner, there will definitely be a few one night stands cracking off in Portland. Ladies, remember the hunky seamen of fleet week have been away for a while, so don't expect that incredible sex encounter on the first round. I hope these sailors are ready to eat a lot of pussy, because that's what it really takes these days to keep women happy. Don't go down on the sailors too long, because you will get disappointed when he barely puts it in and it's over. They do have some herbal Viagra at Cathie's on Powell that you could slip into their drink if you want to insure a good time. I've got proof it works! Stay tuned for my Jesse Jane interview on YouTube soon. I perform at the Hawthorne Theater on June 10th. I will also be judging the Ink 'N' Pink finals at Dante's on Friday, June 11th. Big shout out to KUFO for having me on the Viva La Luna show. Big love to Devils Point for having an amazing pin-up girl contest. To all of you reading, keep sending me your emails, I love it. Have a great month and keep your sex hot and at full throttle.

JOANNA ANGEL

In 1984, the only things people thought hardcore punk had in common with hardcore porn were circle jerks and vibrators. In 2010, there is an emerging scene that combines the best of both those anti-establishment facets. Alternative-pornography or alt-porn has become one of the fastest growing and most original subgenres to come out of adult entertainment. There is no one more identified with the scene than Joanna Angel. While studying English and film in the early 2000s, Joanna started the website BurningAngel.com from her Rutgers University dorm room. Ms. Angel quickly made a name for herself by not being the kind of pornstar you'd see in the magazine stash your old man hides in the tool shed. Her tattoos and pension for punk fashion along with her slightly geeky but ever-adorable smile have solidified her as one of the most original and unique performers, not only of today, but in the history of adult entertainment. Working as the mastermind behind the Burning Angel empire, Joanna has put out a line of punk- and tattoo-themed adult movies (a few of which she's directed), sex toys and Burning Angel magazine.

Her looks aren't the only thing that set her apart from the rest of the flock, she is notoriously known for her down-to-earth demeanor and having a sense of humor about herself and the work she does.

In honor of Ink 'N' Pink, Exotic had the prospect of talking to Ms. Angel personally for a phone interview. Because of scheduling problems and the logistics of making contact with her, the interview didn't really get the chance to happen and Joanna soon became the Roger Smith to our Michael Moore. Just so there's no confusion, despite being unavailable for an interview, the record should state just how cool Joanna Angel and her publicist Brian Gross were to us by keeping in contact with our staffers via email and Twitter. For this we are truly grateful to them and will say that Exotic looks forward to the possibility of working with Joanna in the future. But until that time comes, we'll talk about one of her fuck-movies.

LA Pink A XXX Porn Parody: With the recent trend of TV show spoofs throughout the porn industry, Joanna Angel decided to parody a show that she actually appeared on, LA Ink. In the DVD special features, Joanna says that LA Ink is a "ridiculous show with a bunch of sob stories of why people get their tattoos and I thought it would be a lot better with people banging in it." Apparently it might not be the smartest idea to invite Joanna Angel and Kat Von D to the same barbecue, but she does a great porno impersonation of her as Joanna Von Angel. Joanna plays the lead role of one of LA's most famous tattoo artists who just can't get good ink done until she's buzzed her vag with the tattoo gun. The movie does a great job of turning the show on its head, poking fun at everything from the perceived drama in the shop to the ridiculous tattoos people decide to get (we've all seen them). The plot thickens as Joanna is approached by Shawn Michaels, CEO of a frozen pizza company, Party Pizza, Inc., and his assistant played by James Deen who wants to market a line of tattoo-themed frozen pizzas with her face on the box. There's only one obstacle, due to her image problem, Joanna's contract states that she cannot tattoo anyone or engage in any type of sexual behavior for the duration of her contract. Does she sellout to the corporate fat-cats or does she stay true to her punk rock roots? (It wouldn't be a porn movie if she made the wrong decision.) Story aside, Joanna even seems to have an unconventional approach to her sex scenes and looks like she is genuinely having fun in them rather than just trying to give her best fake orgasm. Joanna can keep your attention in the sex scenes even if your dick isn't in your hand or your fingers aren't in your pussy. The movie works to rub your rocks out to and it's also the kind of porn you can watch drinking beer with your buddies. Although it might not be the most popular of the porn TV parodies out there, it's one of the most unique and entertaining ones. Besides, did you seriously think you'd see a spoof of a show on TLC other than John and Kate Bang Eight?

TOM BYRON

Tom Byron is one of the few stars from the Betamax-era of adult entertainment who has been able to have a substantial career for almost three decades while staying true to his hardcore roots. Known as The Great White Hope, Byron has starred in the classic adult films Mounds of Pleasure and New Wave Hookers (See Exotic #200 for review). Byron kept a solid performing career well into the early 2000s, until he took a brief leave to focus on directing and heading his own distribution company, Evolution Erotica. These days, he might be a little more Dr. Dre than he is Flock of Seagulls, but he came back to performing and proved that he's still on his A-game and is still one of the top contenders both in front and behind the camera.

Hit Me With Your Best Squirt:

Other than the title being a half-ass pun of a Pat Benatar song, Hit Me With Your Best Squirt is proof that getting fucked under the Reefer Madness poster in Tom's living room has become a benchmark for any up-and-cumming pornstar. Cover girls Charley Chase and Kayme Kai do a pretty nice three-way in the opening scene and prove that the guys in fuck movies aren't the only ones who can give a money-shot. In another scene, Lexi Love politely cleans up the mess she's made by licking her secretions off the camera lens. Though many sex therapists still argue whether female ejaculation can be achieved by every woman, this movie shows that the chicks who can do it make it look pretty fucking hot.

Masturbation Nation

7: In this conceivably gonzo-style peepshow, Tom Byron displays his hottest talent rubbing it out with glass dongs, vibrators and even just their hands. It offers a variety of over 20 girls, including Abby Lane, Carmen McCarthy, Flower Tucci and Jackie Daniels. Although it might not immediately grab you attention in the porn shop or be a landmark achievement in the history of adult cinema, Masturbation Nation 7 is a substantial straight-to-the-point fuck movie that will easily put the tadpoles on your pant leg. Coincidentally, in keeping with our Ink 'N' Pink theme, there are some hot fucking tats on one chick in this film.

Tom Byron's Black Ass

Fixation 3: Byron shows his best collection of black girl booty with the third installment of his Black Ass Fixation series. Showcasing the hottest black chicks seen outside a Melvin Van Peebles film, this movie shows the natural assets of black chicks as well as the ability to make want-to-be white boys jealous of the natural advantage that black guys carry in their pants. The film delivers pounding, done to performers like Candi Dreamz and Precious (not the same Precious from the Academy Award winning film, but she kind of looks like it). For the white-upper-middle class whose idea of cutting lose is going to their kid's soccer games or attending a Sheryl Crow concert, this movie might give them a small idea of what kind of fucking is going on in the Executive Residence with Barack and Michelle. Nobody said that Tom Byron wasn't a patriot.
